Historiography is the study of the methods of historians in developing history as an academic discipline, and by extension is any body of historical work on a particular subject. The historiography of a specific topic covers how historians have studied that topic using particular sources, techniques, and theoretical approaches.

Historiography - Wikipedia

A historian is a person who studies and writes about the past, and is regarded as an authority on it. Historians are concerned with the continuous, methodical narrative and research of past events as relating to the human race; as well as the study of all history in time.

The Latest Argument. In his April 12, 2018 opinion piece for the New York Times Sunday Review, "The Historians Versus the Genealogists," John Sedgwick wrote about what he saw as the differences between historians and genealogists. He concludes that we need both, but I must disagree with nearly every point on the way to get there.
